Ben's thoughts...

RHOSCOLYN (2.25 Goodwood) ran well up to a point last time out at York over a mile but ultimately he maybe just doesn't really stay that trip (he is now 0/8, 2p over 1m trips). He runs well here at Goodwood (1237 at track - 7 came from an impossible draw) and although he clearly handles big fields it's well worth noting that all his wins have come in fields of 8-11 runners and he has plenty of boxes ticked here.

KENDRED FIRE (6.50 Redcar) this 3yo really hasn't had the rub of the green on recent starts, generally being up against it from the draw and or how the track has been playing on the pace front. Despite that he's still been finishing in front of horses that have come out and boosted the form by winning subsequent starts and I do think he's on a decent mark at present. The draw looks good for him here, he's got some pace horses drawn beside him to get a tow into the race and he looks over-priced at double figures.
